It shows a vitality in the Government. once the purpose is set. 3.—The Chinese people show a patience almost uncaralleled, vernment has great power, both in point of quickness and readiness to work. 5.-The great fault of the whole system, is the lack of a regular system along the whole course, now mending the inner embankment to the neglect of the outer, and now the outer to the neglect terrific and added much to the general con- of the inner. 6 .- The Chinese Government has really a Board to manage the river and the works in the persons of the Vicercy of Childi, the Governors of Honan and Shantung, and the Director-General of the River itself. In this list at present are two of the most gifted, energetic and trustworthy men in China. Li Hang-chang and Wn Tack'eng. The Governors of the other two provinces have also shown considerable resource in time of great emergency. Really tour such men form a strong Board, and hardly a better could be established at present in China.

7.-Now that the Yellow River is again back Shantung, and having a large slope to the sea, is it altogether wise to seek to turn it elsewhere? Why not seize the opportunity, and Investi ate the problem as now presented?

Being nothing of an engineer, and still less of as hydranlic expert, I am forced to look to others for light. In thus looking, there seems to me to be a few axioms already established—at least they appear quite natural to a fledgling. 1.—The greater the slope, the greater the velocity of the current, and the greater the current, the greater the force of the water. 2.-Diminish the width of the channel, and you increase the velocity of the current and so the force of the water. 3 .- Increase the force of the water, and you increase its capacity to carry the sediment, and you thereby deepen the channel. the French Concession. A good story is told concerning the Rev. Dr Daft, who took intense delight in using the largest words he could command, with endless redundancies. Sitting in a room with a lady on whom he was calling, he surprised her with the inquiry -- "Madam, will you allow me to decapitate with the bicepated forceps the superfluous fungua extransity of you nocturnal luminary?" "What do you say, Mr. Daft ?" "Madam, | will repeat ment by engaging a ludy stenegrapher-by for your further illumination my previous interrogatory." He repeated the sentence. "I really don't know what you mean. Mr. Daft." "Then, madam, I will proceed without further ceremony to perform the necessary operation." Station. So saying, he snuffed the candle.

NOW ON SALE. IMPERIAL QUARTO, ETNGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN

MAN LOONG,

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office. Hongkong For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the nev words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accouts being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli cations and equivalents of different words which have one general moaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which

To parties resident in England and interested n China it cannot but be invaluable occasion It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.
